

GROWING YOUR BUSINESS

GROWING YOUR BUSINESS

MEMBERS NEWS

1 Gerard Walsh, Michael McNeest, Managing Partner and Michael Nolan, Grant Thornton pictured on the rooftop of Grant Thornton's new Cork office at Penrose Dock.

2 All were awarded the Outstanding Achievement in Sustainable Business Impact at the Chambers Ireland Sustainable Business Impact Awards 2020. (Formerly the CSR Awards). The Awards were held online as a virtual ceremony for this year. Pictured at the AIB Corporate Headquarters upon presenting the award were Eadgy Lacey, Chief Operating Officer, BMM Ireland and Margaret Brennan, President, Chambers Ireland with Colin Hurst, Chief Executive Officer AIB. Picture: Finbar O'Rourke

1 Bally Cogan, Carrigaline; Melanie O'Donoghue, Cobh; Caitie Halyard, Middleton and Mick McCarthy, Youghal. Identifying their town's unique value proposition - participants from My Town, My Plan community training programme pictured recently at the Radisson Blu Hotel, Little Island. The programme was delivered by the Herts Centre for Entrepreneurship Excellence, part of the School of Business at Cork Institute of Technology and funded through SICAD Partnership CIG. Picture: Brian Loughneer

2 Anaiscaidh Michael Martin, TD with David Heffernan Managing Director and Brendan Leithan Chairperson at Irish International Trading Corporation celebrates 100 years in business. Picture: Darragh Kane

3 Paula McGovern Marymount University Hospital & Hospice with Tomas Mulcahy, Kevin O'Donovan Cork GAA CEO and Niall Cahalane, Cork GAA at the launch of GO RED for Cork. Picture: Gerard McCarthy

4 A stunning Sculpture Exhibition was installed at the Montenapote Hotel's sumptuous Victorian Gallery recently, in association with the prestigious Riddell Gallery. Pictured at the opening are Fiona Keatney, The Gluckman Gallery with Frankie Wholehan, Montenapote Hotel. Picture: Gerard McCarthy

5 Dr. Ivan Hayes, Consultant Intensivist and Critical Care Director at CUH, Dr. Owen O'Thynn, a 23 year old Trauma Doctor who spent time in CUH ICU as a patient with Covid-19 and Dr. Corinna Sadler, Consultant in Infectious Diseases at Cork University Hospital launch the National COVID Research and Scientific Meeting a virtual conference for medical professionals and the public on the management of critically ill patients with Covid-19. Picture: Gerard McCarthy

6 2020 Network Ireland Cork Businesswoman of the Year winner Linda O'Connell of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul Ireland with Network Ireland Cork's president, Marguerite O'Sullivan. Linda, who was announced the 2020 overall winner at a virtual awards ceremony, also won in the Transformative Employee category. Picture: Darragh Kane

7 Crawford Art Gallery receives significant capital funds from Government to advance its major capital project to redevelop the Gallery. This announcement of €1.32 million is very significant and timely, enabling Crawford Art Gallery to move onto the next phase of procurement for the planned redevelopment of the Gallery under Project Ireland 2040.

Thermo Fisher Scientific launches community grant

Global life sciences company Thermo Fisher Scientific has launched a €45,000 community grant in celebration of its double anniversary. Assisting deserving causes, it will be divided between local community groups along with charitable causes close to the hearts of employees.

The contract pharmaceutical manufacturing facility is marking the first year of its Irish operation in Currabinny, along with recognising the legacy of the site where it now stands, which has been championing science for the past 45 years.

To mark the anniversaries, Thermo Fisher Scientific's Community Partnership Grant is open to community groups and charities in Cork's Lower Harbour of Currabinny, Shanbally, Ringsidddy, Carrigaline and Crosshaven. The groups can apply by 31 October at www.thermofisher.com/csr/community-partnership-grant. A share of the Community Partnership Grant will also go to larger or national charities — selected, and voted by, Thermo Fisher Scientific employees. The beneficiaries will be announced in December.